

Parents and Little People Learning and Playing Groups

Parents and Little People

Play and Learn Together in Small Groups with a Child Development Facilitator Infants & Toddlers: 0-30 months

For Details Contact: Kathleen Grey, M.A.

earlyyrs@sbcglobal.net
530-304-0473

Parents and Little People groups are a unique idea in learning and growing together. They are designed for deepening parent/child relationships through shared fun and interactions. Children learn in an atmosphere that supports their curiosity and developing capabilities. And parents learn through discussions with peers and a child development facilitator. Sleep problems, attachment issues, tantrums, oppositional behavior, toilet learning, infant sign language, and peer conflicts are some of the topics addressed as parents share concerns with one another.

For information on current groups and registration, contact Kathleen Grey at 530-304-0473 or earlyyrs@sbcglobal.net

Parent and Little People Groups are facilitated by Kathleen Grey, M.A., former Academic Child Development Specialist for the Infant/Toddler Program in the Center for Child and Family Studies at the University of California Davis.